PARTNERS IN CRIME

Joe Pesci, Robert De Niro and Al Pacino share the screen in Martin Scorsese's epic new Mob drama

NEW FROM NETFLIX

NEW DRAMA

The Irishman

From Wednesday 27 Nov, Netflix

Put Hollywood legends Martin Scorsese, Robert De Niro and Al Pacino together and the resulting movie is bound to be special.

That's certainly the case with real-life gangster drama The Irishman, an epic tale of loyalty and friendship, violence and betrayal, which spans six decades, runs almost three-and-a-half hours, and also sees Joe Pesci and Harvey Keitel reunite with director Scorsese.

CRIMINAL ACTIVITY

In the Netflix movie, De Niro plays the title character, Frank Sheeran, a World War Two veteran who reflects on his life as a hitman and enforcer after he starts working for Mob boss Russell Bufalino (Pesci).

As Sheeran gains Bufalino's trust and friendship, he is recommended as a bodyguard to Jimmy Hoffa (Pacino), the charismatic and corrupt head of America's biggest labour union, the Teamsters.

But when Hoffa is released from prison, after serving time for fraud, he falls out with his Mafia associates and threatens to blow the whistle –

TWO OF A KIND

Over five decades, Robert De Niro and Martin Scorsese have created some of cinema's most memorable films. Here are four of our favourites...

Mean Streets (1974)

De Niro plays fast-talking Johnny Boy, a volatile loner constantly in debt to a slimy loan shark, in this gritty urban drama shot on the streets of New York's Little Italy on a shoestring budget.

Sheeran is assigned with protecting Jimmy Hoffa

Jimmy Hoffa (Al Pacino) and Frank Sheeran (Robert De Niro)

a dispute that quickly tests Sheeran's allegiances to the core…

Scorsese and De Niro have, of course, worked together many times before (see panel, below), while De Niro and Pacino were notable screen partners in 1996's Heat. But The Irishman is the first time all three have joined forces.

Scorsese's last film with De Niro had been Casino in 1996 and he was keen to find a new project for them. It was De Niro who steered the pair towards The Irishman back in 2006 after he came upon a biography of Sheeran called I Heard You Paint Houses.

'After I read it, I got together with Marty and I said, "You got to look at this. This is a project you're going to want to do,"' reveals the 76-year-old actor.

The development process from book to screen was long and painful, but Scorsese says that he never once felt like giving up.

'Pretty quickly I'd started to see the movie in my head,' he explains. 'The themes and the questions that have haunted and obsessed me throughout my life were all there. It gave us the opportunity to pick up the thread from our previous pictures and come together at a very different moment in our lives.'

As the film reveals, Hoffa disappeared without a trace in 1975, leading to several conspiracy theories. Although his body was never found, Sheeran allegedly confessed to the killing before his own death in 2003 – and both De Niro and Pacino believe he was telling the truth.

> 'I did a lot of improvising, which drove Marty nuts'
> AL PACINO

'There have been so many details that have come out, that I just think it's real,' says Pacino. 'I really enjoyed playing Hoffa. I just feasted on it. And I did quite a lot of improvising, which drove Marty nuts.'

A lot of the film's $175million budget was spent on CGI de-ageing technology (Scorsese calls it 'youthification') that allows the stars to play their characters from their mid-20s to 50s.

'The new technology is bringing things that are unimaginable, and CGI is really an evolution of make-up,' reckons Scorsese. 'You accept norms in make-up. You know that he's not that old, she's not that young, but you accept the illusion.'

'In the old days,' adds Pacino, 'they got an actor we all knew and loved and they put grey hair on him and we all said, "Oh, he got older."'

LAST OF ITS KIND

Even by Scorsese's high standards, The Irishman has received brilliant reviews, but the director, who turned 77 earlier this month, says it's unlikely he'll try anything as ambitious with De Niro in the future.

'It was tough enough to get this film done, to get the money together to do it and everything,' he says. 'I don't see us putting on a movie like this again. I hope we do other films together, but like this? Not likely. This is it.'

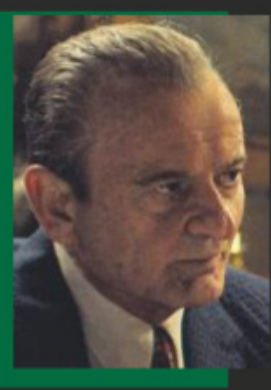
WHO'S WHO

Frank Sheeran
Robert De Niro

The World War Two veteran is desensitised to killing, making him an ideal Mob enforcer.

Russell Bufalino
Joe Pesci

The head of a Pennsylvania-based crime family becomes Sheeran's mentor.



Jimmy Hoffa
Al Pacino

The head of America's most powerful union has deep ties to criminal organisations.

Bill Bufalino
Ray Romano

Russell's cousin is the union's lawyer and defends Frank Sheeran in a court case.

Anthony Provenzano
Stephen Graham

The New Jersey crime boss – AKA Tony Pro – has an angry showdown with Hoffa.

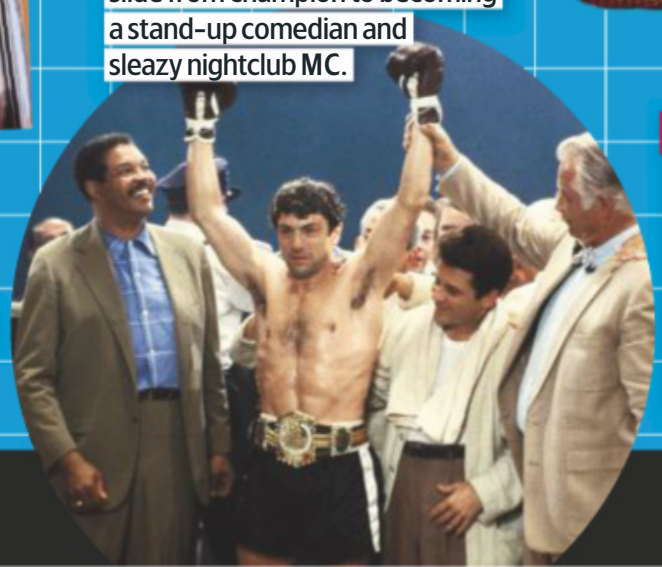
Peggy Sheeran
Anna Paquin

Frank is fiercely protective of his daughter, who is terrified of what Russell Bufalino can do to them.

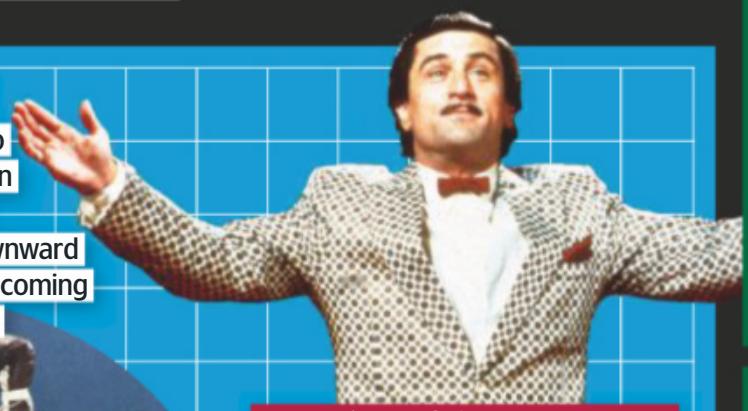
Angelo Bruno
Harvey Keitel

Sheeran works for the terse Philadelphia crime boss as he rises up the criminal ranks.

Taxi Driver (1976)
'You talkin' to me?' Obsessed with saving Jodie Foster's child prostitute, De Niro's troubled Vietnam veteran-turned-vigilante Travis Bickle is cinema's ultimate portrait of urban alienation.



Raging Bull (1981)
An Oscar-winning De Niro famously put on more than 4st to portray American boxer Jake LaMotta's downward slide from champion to becoming a stand-up comedian and sleazy nightclub MC.



The King of Comedy (1983)
'Better to be king for a night than schmuck for a lifetime!' De Niro gives a skin-crawling performance as talentless wannabe comedian Rupert Pupkin, prepared to go to desperate lengths for a shot at stardom on a TV talk show.

Uli (Mark Waschke) and his family try to flee to safety

Final countdown

Panic breaks out as an asteroid heads for Europe

NEW DRAMA

8 Days

Tuesday-Wednesday, Sky Atlantic HD, from 10pm

As the shocking news breaks that an asteroid is on a collision course with Earth, the impending catastrophe throws the world into panic, chaos and anarchy.

The meteor is set to land right in the middle of Europe, and experts predict that no one in the immediate strike zone will survive – and there are only eight days before impact...

FIGHT FOR SURVIVAL

That's the thrilling opening to Sky Atlantic's gritty subtitled drama, 8 Days, which follows the plight of several Berlin families over the eight days as they fight for survival in the face of apocalyptic disaster.

'It's not a classic catastrophe movie or superhero blockbuster,' says co-creator Rafael Parente. 'These characters can't do anything about the situation. They will not be able to save the world.'

As the gigantic asteroid races towards Earth, the US tries to knock it off course with nuclear weapons – but fails in its efforts.

The only chance of survival is to flee towards the East. But as millions try to leave the impact zone, the nearby countries close their borders.

CHAOS AND DESPAIR

Desperate to escape, science teacher Uli Steiner (Mark Waschke), his doctor wife Susanne (Christiane Paul) and their two children arrange to meet smugglers who have promised to take them to Russia. Meanwhile, Susanne's brother Herrmann (Fabian Hinrichs) uses his government contacts to try to evacuate his pregnant girlfriend Marion to the US.

As some people do their best to flee, others decide to make the most of the time they have left – whether by looting shops or taking drugs.

'We ask the audience: what would you do with your last eight days?' says Parente. 'There are different steps in dealing with such a thing. First you have the denial phase, then aggressiveness, then relief. So we see that in different episodes.'

The production team spoke to several scientists to make the doomsday scenario as authentic as possible.

'We did a lot of research about what would happen,' says Parente. 'The scientists told us some of us might survive the impact, but the question is, what happens after that?'

Facing the MUSIC

Tim Minchin is a struggling pianist driving across Australia in a quirky road-trip drama

NEW COMEDY DRAMA

Upright

Thursday, Sky Atlantic HD, 10pm & 10.35pm

He's best known as a keyboard-playing comic and creator of West End musical Matilda. Now Tim Minchin is showing off his acting chops in a new eight-part comedy drama about a pair of misfits on an Australian road trip.

The 44-year-old plays Lucky Flynn, a struggling musician who, when he finds out that his mother is close to death in Perth, decides to drive there with his much-loved upright piano.

But Lucky has barely started towing his battered piano by car when he is involved in an accident with feisty teen Meg (Milly Alcock).

The two become reluctant travelling companions on the 4,000km trip from Sydney to Perth, revealing their vulnerabilities en route.

'From the moment I heard about Upright, I knew it was the show I'd been waiting to make,' says Minchin. 'I like stories that make me laugh and think and cry, I adore the landscapes of outback Australia – and I love music and homecomings, and characters full of flaws.'

Minchin, who is a co-writer on the series, says the dynamic between Lucky and Meg is in the classic odd-couple style.

'Here are two people who would not naturally be together,' he explains. 'You've got a guy who needs to take a pill to manage his anxiety, and within the first few minutes he bumps into this young girl. But Lucky has a dilemma that requires Meg to help and she's got a dilemma that requires him.'

SHIFTING RELATIONSHIP

The pair are both emotionally damaged, and their stories are teased out in flashbacks as the eight episodes unfold across eight days and nights on the road.

'It's about what happens when you separate yourself from home,' says Minchin. 'It's also about Lucky's inability to take responsibility for this kid.'

Their shifting relationship is at the heart of the drama, he adds. 'It's not a father-daughter relationship or an uncle-niece one,' he says. 'You just get to observe two people who seem like opposites become symbiotic.'

In Upright, Lucky's piano once belonged to his great-grandmother. And Minchin also has an old piano that is very close to his heart.

'It's all very connected. The piano I taught myself to play on belonged to my great-grandmother,' says Minchin, who was born in England but raised in Perth, Australia.

There are a few other links to Minchin in the show, including his brother Dan playing Lucky's dad in flashbacks. He also says that his family did the same trip – with a slight difference – when he was a kid.

'I did that journey in the opposite direction with my mum and dad when I was nine,' he says. 'We went across Australia sleeping in a fold-out tent. It was mad!'

Although Minchin is best known as a comedian, his acting credits include Friar Tuck in the 2018 film Robin Hood and a rock star in US TV series Californication.

'I've always thought acting is part of what I do,' he says. 'My real obsession is variety and not being pigeonholed. My whole mission is to have a long, interesting career, not a short, spiky one.'

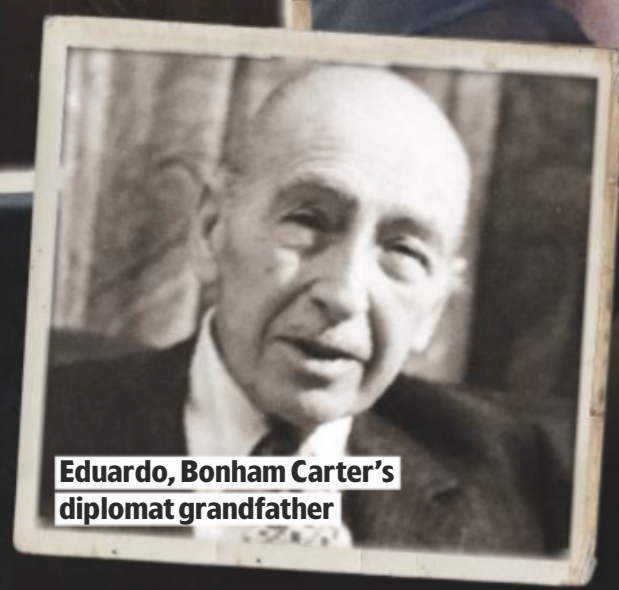
Families AT WAR

Helena Bonham Carter explores her grandparents' bravery during World War Two

Helena Bonham Carter's grandmother Violet and father Raymond



Eduardo, Bonham Carter's diplomat grandfather

NEW GENEALOGY
My Grandparents' War
Wednesday, C4 HD, 9pm

World War Two affected the lives of families across the globe. Now, 80 years after the start of the war, four celebrities explore the roles their own grandparents played during the conflict for C4's new four-part series My Grandparents' War.

Celebrated British actors Mark Rylance, Kristin Scott Thomas and Carey Mulligan examine their wartime roots later in the series, but, first up is Helena Bonham Carter, who investigates the incredible life-saving work that two of her grandparents undertook during the war.

'They weren't conventional war heroes – they didn't fight in battles or win any medals – but I wanted to discover what they did,' says the star of The King's Speech and Suffragette.

Bonham Carter begins by looking at the extraordinary life of her paternal grandmother, Lady Violet Bonham Carter, a liberal politician and close friend of Winston Churchill. During the 1930s, Violet fought passionately against the rise of Nazism and also helped Jewish refugees find asylum in Britain.

A MARKED WOMAN

'Violet was ahead of her time. She'd been warning about the threat the Nazis posed and was deeply moved by the plight of Jewish refugees,' says Bonham Carter, who meets the daughter of a Jewish man who fled to the UK from Czechoslovakia without a visa – with Violet acting as a guarantor for him.

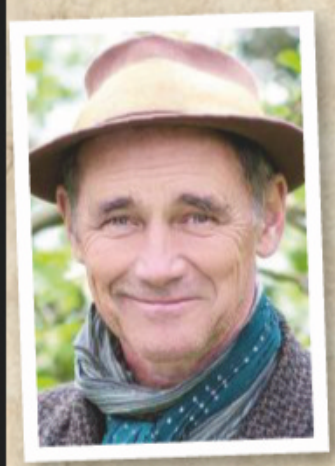
'Violet came to people's rescue and I'm so glad. She found it appalling how Jews were treated and she wasn't going to stand for it. She was born with a sense of responsibility. But it made her a marked woman. She was put on the Gestapo's blacklist to be executed in the event of a German invasion of Britain.'

The actress also learns about her grandmother's perilous work as an air-raid warden helping Londoners to safety during the Blitz, and uncovers how Violet dealt with her own family tragedies. Her eldest son was a prisoner of war and her son-in-law was also captured and later died as he tried to get home.

'She faced what all wartime mothers feared most,' says Bonham Carter. 'But I didn't know what risk she was running as an air-raid warden. She was very brave but completely bonkers.'

More research unearthed some fascinating facts about her maternal grandfather, Eduardo Propper de Callejón, a Spanish diplomat in

ALSO IN THE SERIES...



Mark Rylance

The Oscar-winning star of Bridge of Spies visits Hong Kong to look at how his grandfather, Osmond Skinner, a one-time banker, fared during nearly four years of internment as a prisoner of war being held by the Japanese.

'He was reticent to talk about it, but he witnessed things that disturbed him. It was absolutely horrific,' says Wolf Hall star Rylance, 59. 'But how extraordinary history is, particularly this link of grandchildren and grandparents.'

Kristin Scott Thomas

The Four Weddings and a Funeral star examines what her paternal grandfather Lieutenant Commander William Scott Thomas went through during some of the Royal Navy's most devastating battles and how he took part in the dangerous Russian Arctic convoys.

'He had been through hell,' says Scott Thomas, 59. 'I could never imagine anybody related to me could do such extraordinary things.'

'Violet was ahead of her time. She'd been warning about the threat the Nazis posed'

HELENA BONHAM CARTER

France, who, along with his wife Bubbles, came from a Jewish background. They fled Paris with their family – including Bonham Carter's mum Elena – when the Nazis invaded in 1940.

DEFYING ORDERS

They then headed to Bordeaux, which was still in French hands, and full of Jewish refugees desperate to escape the country. Without permission from the Spanish government, Eduardo used his diplomatic powers to issue transit visas to refugees so that they could travel through neutral Spain to freedom in Portugal and beyond.

To find out more, Bonham Carter returns to the family home in Paris and also visits Bordeaux with her uncle Felipe to see where her grandfather Eduardo carried out his potentially hazardous work.

'I can't really remember him, but I'd grown up with family stories about how Eduardo defied the Nazis and issued these exit visas, which helped hundreds, perhaps thousands, of people escape the Holocaust,' she says.

'He never talked about it, but he risked a lot. He defied orders and his career was irreparably damaged. But for a whole week he spent day and night incessantly signing these visas.'

The 53-year-old, who plays Princess Margaret in The Crown, admits she has come away from the show with a better understanding of both branches of her family tree.

'They weren't that different in their beliefs and their compassion,' she explains. 'I'm so proud that Eduardo and Violet, in the face of strong opposition, stood up for what they believed in.'

Carey Mulligan

The acclaimed actress, whose credits include films Suffragette and An Education and BBC series Bleak House, heads to Japan as she investigates her maternal grandfather Denzil Booth's experiences as a naval officer fighting against the Japanese during the final months of the war.

'It's a lost chapter of my family's history that I've always wanted to explore,' explains Mulligan, 34. 'His life was transformed by the war in ways he couldn't have imagined.'

Can Lee Scoresby (Lin-Manuel Miranda) and his daemon Hester help Lyra (Dafne Keen)?

Flying high

Lin-Manuel Miranda joins His Dark Materials as an adventurous aeronaut

FANTASY DRAMA

His Dark Materials

Sunday, BBC1 HD, 8pm

As the creator of hit stage musical Hamilton and star of movie blockbuster Mary Poppins Returns, Lin-Manuel Miranda has producers and directors queuing up to work with him.

But the Hollywood star still describes himself as 'very lucky' at being asked to appear in BBC1's epic adaptation of Philip Pullman's His Dark Materials – with the fantasy trilogy having a special place in Miranda's heart.

'I read it together with my wife Vanessa when we first started dating,' smiles the 39-year-old. 'It was the beginning of our courtship and they're great books to fall in love to.'

He joins the cast this week as the charming but reckless Lee Scoresby. The Texan aeronaut-for-hire lands in the North in his hot-air balloon just as intrepid Lyra (Dafne Keen) also arrives to continue her plan to rescue kidnapped children from the clutches of the sinister Magisterium. Can Lee prove beneficial to her mission?

Here, Miranda tells us more…

Why do you love the books so much? It's a wonderful coming-of-age tale with a giant, imaginative world. But the books also deal with weighty ideas that couldn't be more relevant now. It's about what lengths you go to in a fight for freedom.

What's your take on Lee? I never in a million years would have cast myself as him. He looks so cool. Lee's the Han Solo of the story. He spends his life looking out for himself. But in helping Lyra, he plugs into something bigger than himself.

Lee arrives in his hot-air balloon

Did you enjoy working with Dafne? She is incredibly talented and we fell into a very easy rapport. Every time we weren't filming these intense scenes, we were singing songs from Oliver! or The Sound of Music.

Lee is an action man. Were the stunts fun? Yes, I even had a bar fight! My grandfather, who passed away a few years ago, was such a western fan and now I get to be the guy who walks into the saloon and fights mean guys. My grandfather would be so happy.

Have you enjoyed working in the UK again after shooting Mary Poppins Returns here? It was like a holiday getting to live with my family in Cardiff. I have a four-year-old who loves knights and dragons and every weekend I could show him a new castle.

Hamilton* has been such a phenomenon. Do UK audiences react differently to it at all? You guys giggle more at the sex stuff in Hamilton than we do. There's a bit of a Carry On Camping reaction, which tickles me no end.

Sanjeev Bhaskar made his name in the BBC2 comedy sketch series Goodness Gracious Me (1998-2001), which explored British Asian culture with spoofs such as Delhitubbies.

He reunited with his then-wife-to-be Meera Syal for comedy chat show The Kumars at No. 42, which ran for seven series. Bhaskar has also shown his acting skills as DI Sunny Khan in ITV crime drama Unforgotten, which began in 2015, and recently appeared in Amazon Prime Video's Good Omens.

HIS NEW SHOW

This week, the 56-year-old hosts new ITV quiz The Switch, which sees contestants answering questions to win cash prizes, while hoping to avoid an incorrect answer that will see another contestant switch places with them. Whoever is switched out at the end of the round leaves empty-handed, even if they have the most cash. 'We like to watch these shows as a family,' says Bhaskar. 'Quiz shows – and anything David Attenborough does – are two things that everyone from kids to grannies can sit down and watch together.'

Robert Carlyle on the life-or-death war between humans and Martians

DRAMA

The War of the Worlds

Sunday, BBC1 HD, 9pm

The Martians caused terror as they arrived in Edwardian England in last week's opening episode of The War of the Worlds, and there's more destruction when they begin a full-scale invasion in Sunday's spectacular second episode.

Following more alien landings, an array of Martian vehicles is now stalking the countryside, exterminating everything in their path, and it's soon clear the invaders have their sights set on London.

With the tripods looming over the capital's landmarks and explosions ripping through the air, the ensuing battle for Earth wouldn't look out of place in a big-screen blockbuster.

CINEMATIC SCOPE

'It's one of the most impressive productions I've done,' says Robert Carlyle, who plays eccentric scientist Ogilvy. 'It's easily as big as any film set I've worked on and that includes a Bond film [1999's The World is Not Enough]. The line between film and television is getting more blurred all the time, because the quality is rising so fast. Those tripods frighten the hell out of me, and all hell breaks loose when they turn up.'

After moving to Canada for seven years to film long-running fantasy drama Once Upon a Time, Carlyle had just returned to the UK when he was offered the role of Ogilvy in the three-part series.

'I had no intention of working for a while when I came back,' says the Scottish-born actor, who played Rumpelstiltskin in the US series for seven seasons.

'But this script came through the post and I thought, "It's The War of the Worlds! I'll do it!" I moved back to Glasgow with my wife and three kids last summer, but I came a few months early just so I could do this.'

The book was one of Carlyle's childhood favourites and, while

NEW DRAMA

The Fix

Thursday, FOX HD, 9pm

Marcia Clark became a household name when she prosecuted former American football star and actor OJ Simpson in one of America's most notorious murder trials. Now she has co-created a new legal drama in which

George (Rafe Spall), Amy (Eleanor Tomlinson) and Frederick (Rupert Graves) flee the carnage

Earth

a few tweaks have been made to the TV adaptation, he believes it has stayed true to the spirit of HG Wells' classic story, first serialised in 1897.

TECHNO CLASH

'This is the first screen version to be set in its original time period, which shocked me because it was this setting in history that attracted me when I read the book,' he explains. 'It's that clash of the high-tech Martian craft with the Edwardian English landscape.'

A Martian tripod rampages through the city

This week's episode finds George (Rafe Spall) and Amy (Eleanor Tomlinson), who were separated in the carnage of the attack last week, now desperately trying to get back to one another.

In London, Amy and George's brother Frederick (Rupert Graves) must survive on their wits, while back in Surrey George is conscripted to fight the Martians.

'The drama shows we are all the same,' says Carlyle. 'In this story, we are all refugees and we should be helping each other rather than fighting each other.'

a female prosecutor works on a remarkably similar case.

The Fix stars Prison Break's Robin Tunney as ex-District Attorney Maya Travis, whose career was ruined when she unsuccessfully prosecuted film star Sevvy Johnson (Lost's Adewale Akinnuoye-Agbaje) for the murders of his girlfriend and another woman.

When, eight years later, Johnson's latest girlfriend is killed, Maya reluctantly agrees to help former partner Matthew Collier (Adam Rayner) with his investigation. And having been pilloried by the media during the original trial, she is determined to do whatever it takes to get the star behind bars.

So, given the similarities, is the character of Maya based on Clark herself? And is the Johnson case based on the OJ Simpson trial?

'Maya and I share an "origin story" and a devotion to justice, but she really isn't me,' insists Clark, 66, who was portrayed by Sarah Paulson in the critically acclaimed 2016 TV series The People v OJ Simpson: American Crime Story.

'The Fix is a totally fictional imagining of what might happen if a killer who got away with murder the first time winds up charged with murder again – and the prosecutor who lost the first trial comes back to try and bring him to justice this time.

'It's a roller coaster of a show that has cliffhangers at the end of every episode. And we promise that, by the end, you will find out whodunit...'

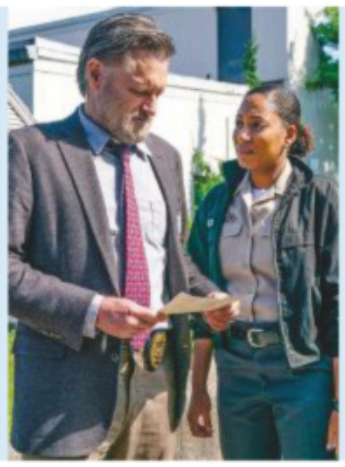
NEW Ladhood

From Sun 24 Nov, from 10am, six episodes as a box set, BBC3 Online

Based on the hit BBC Radio 4 series, this new coming-of-age sitcom is set across two timelines, present-day London and mid-2000s Yorkshire, and stars the show's creator, BAFTA-nominated Liam Williams, as he looks back on his own misspent adolescence and formative experiences hanging out in the suburbs of Leeds with his best mates Ralph, Addy and Craggy. 'I'm playing a discontented man in his early 30s, struggling to break patterns of selfish and destructive behaviour. It will be a real test of my range,' laughs Williams. 'Hopefully it will be funnier than therapy.'



NEW The Sinner

Saturday, BBC4 HD, 9.10pm & 9.55pm

First shown on Netflix, the second season of the acclaimed crime drama comes to BBC4 this week, opening with the first two episodes. Detective Harry Ambrose (Bill Pullman) helps cop Heather Novack (Natalie Paul) investigate the case of a 13-year-old boy who admits to poisoning his parents while on a road trip to Niagara Falls. But the officers soon realise that something's not quite right with the confession.

Nell Tiger Free as Leanne

Living doll

A grieving couple care for a lifelike doll in an eerie thriller from M Night Shyamalan

tv+ Servant

NEW Genre: Thriller Available: Thursday 28 November (first three episodes, then weekly) Season: 1 Episodes: 10 Runs: 30min TVSW says: Satisfyingly creepy

Everyone handles grief differently, but how can a parent ever recover from the loss of a child? That's the premise of M Night Shyamalan's 10-part thriller, Servant, which comes to Apple TV+ this week.

Following the sudden death of their infant son Jericho, Dorothy and Sean Turner (Lauren Ambrose and Toby Kebbell) are advised to try 'transitory object therapy' to help them cope.

It involves caring for a lifelike toy called a 'reborn doll'. Chef Sean is sceptical, but Dorothy – who seems deep in denial – even employs a nanny, Leanne (Nell Tiger Free), to look after the doll when she returns to her job as a news reporter.

However, when Leanne starts treating the doll as though it were a real baby, Sean grows suspicious of her and confides in Dorothy's brash brother Julian (Rupert Grint).

As the brothers-in-law question Leanne's motives, events in the Turner household take a sinister and surreal turn...

'The premise is so tragic, weird and scary,' says Shyamalan, 49, who serves as executive producer. 'But it's also inappropriately funny, and that's the tone I'm interested in – how people can be scared but also laugh at the same time. It's a daring show, and it has some super-entertaining, fun, scary moments, but there's a great ethos of emotion underneath.'

The drama revolves around the four main characters – Dorothy, Sean, Julian and Leanne – and is set entirely in the Turners' impressive brownstone house in Philadelphia.

'It never leaves one location, so it almost has a play-like quality to it,' says Shyamalan. 'We get to concentrate on the performances, writing and cinematography, and every shot is thought-out.'

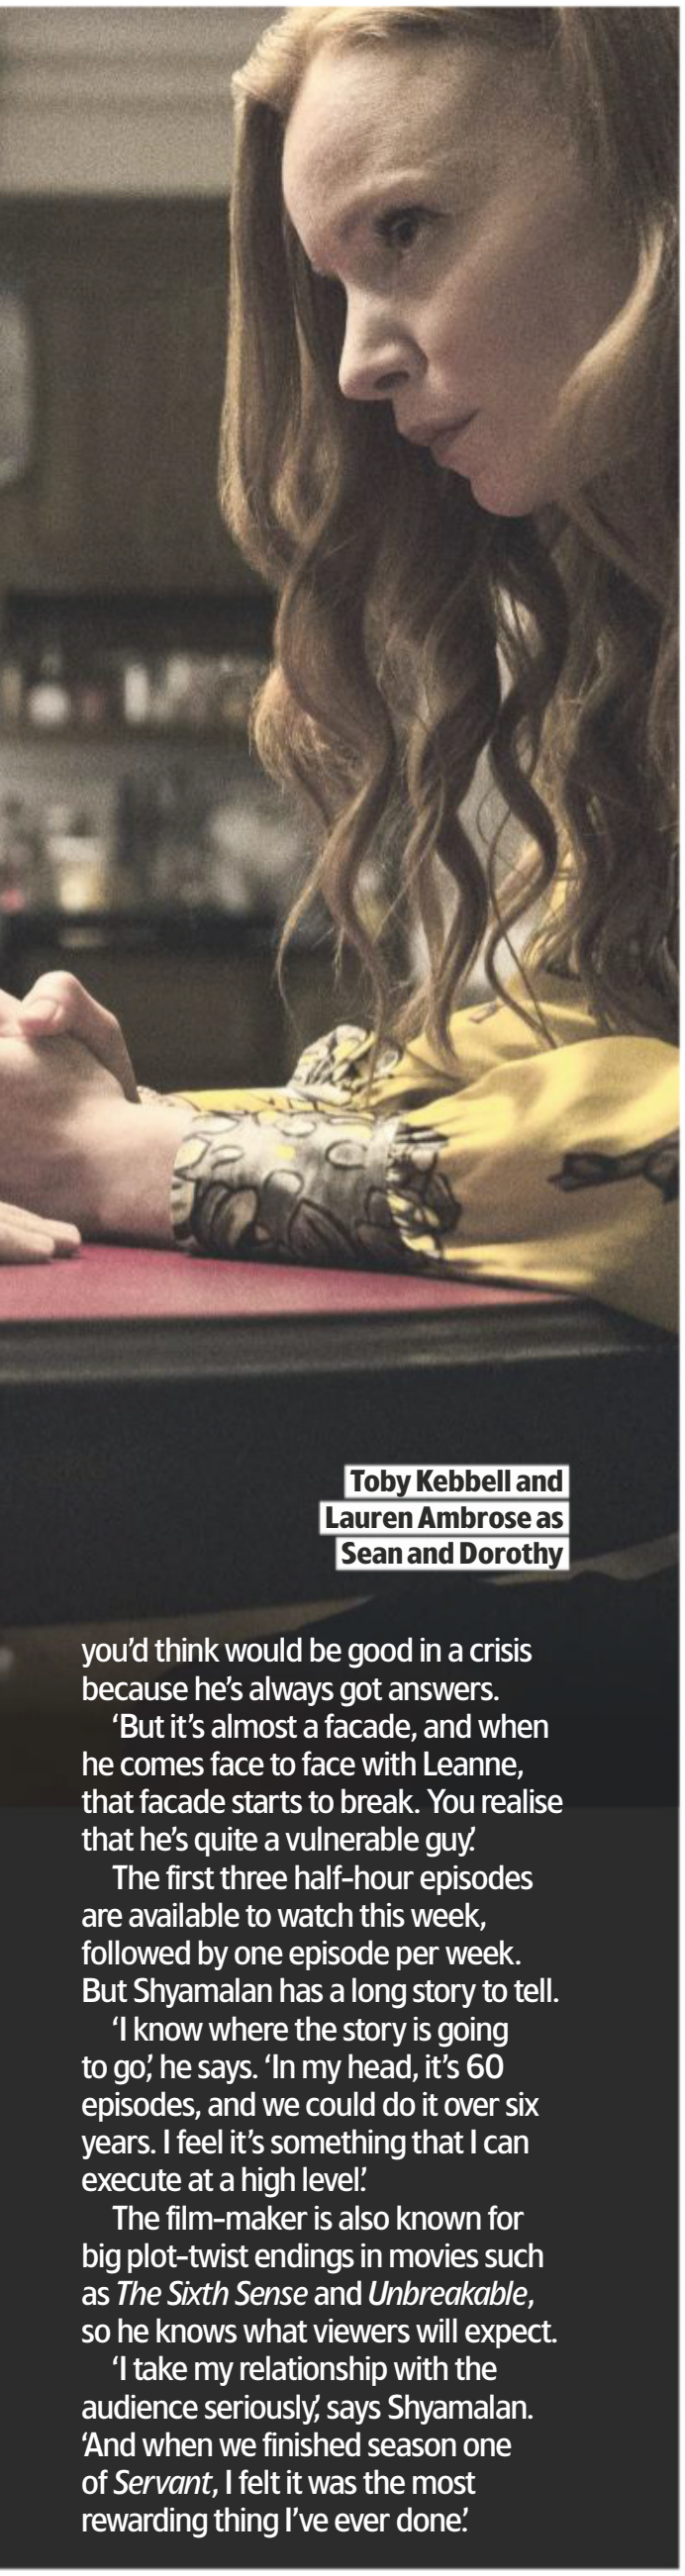
STERLING PERFORMANCES

'Everybody in the cast is an incredible actor,' adds Shyamalan. 'As Leanne, Nell has this quiet quality of someone who's discovering herself in the world.'

Rupert Grint, meanwhile, relished sinking his teeth into his bullish role.

'I love Julian,' says Grint, 31. 'I've never played anyone like him before. He's so outspoken. He's someone

Rupert Grint as Julian



Toby Kebbell and Lauren Ambrose as Sean and Dorothy you'd think would be good in a crisis because he's always got answers.

'But it's almost a facade, and when he comes face to face with Leanne, that facade starts to break. You realise that he's quite a vulnerable guy.'

The first three half-hour episodes are available to watch this week, followed by one episode per week. But Shyamalan has a long story to tell.

'I know where the story is going to go,' he says. 'In my head, it's 60 episodes, and we could do it over six years. I feel it's something that I can execute at a high level.'

The film-maker is also known for big plot-twist endings in movies such as The Sixth Sense and Unbreakable, so he knows what viewers will expect.

'I take my relationship with the audience seriously,' says Shyamalan. 'And when we finished season one of Servant, I felt it was the most rewarding thing I've ever done.'

Terror tactics

A powerful political thriller exposes the CIA's use of torture following the 9/11 attacks

prime The Report

NEW Genre: Political drama Available: Friday 29 November Runs: 120min
TVSW says: Tense real-life drama

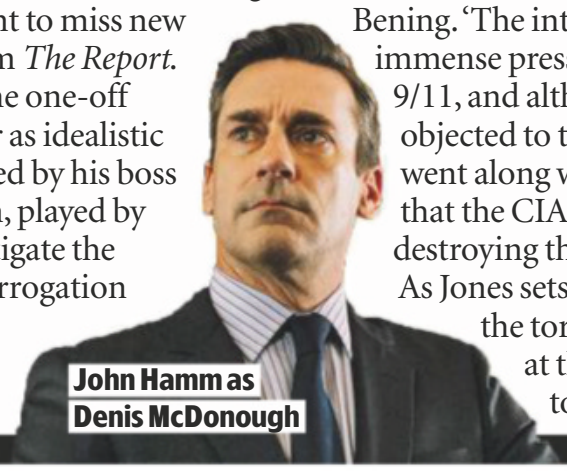
If you enjoyed acclaimed US drama series The Looming Tower, looking at the events leading up to 9/11, you won't want to miss new Amazon Prime Video film The Report.

Based on real events, the one-off drama stars Adam Driver as idealistic Daniel Jones, who is tasked by his boss Senator Dianne Feinstein, played by Annette Bening, to investigate the CIA's Detention and Interrogation Programme, which was set up following the 9/11 terrorist attacks.



John Hamm as Denis McDonough

When a newspaper claims that the CIA destroyed tapes of its brutal interrogations of al-Qaeda detainees, Feinstein asks her research assistant Jones to find out the truth.

CONTROVERSY

'It was a secret CIA torture programme that even President Bush didn't know about,' says Bening. 'The intelligence community was under immense pressure to capture terrorists after 9/11, and although a lot of people in the CIA objected to the use of torture, a lot of people went along with it. When Feinstein learns that the CIA had been torturing people and destroying the tapes, she gets the ball rolling.' As Jones sets about compiling a report into the torture, he uncovers a conspiracy at the highest levels of government to destroy the evidence.

'It started out as an assignment that he was given. Jones didn't have a plan – except to do his job well,' explains Driver, who starred in 2018 movie BlacKkKlansman. 'He had trusted these government institutions his entire life, and suddenly to see them act this way confronted his morals. While the world is being fed a different story, he is working alone in a basement to uncover the truth.'

The impressive cast includes Jon Hamm as a White House official, Matthew Rhys as a journalist, and Douglas Hodge as a psychologist who is given a budget of $80million to get the truth out of the prisoners.

'Jones' investigations found that not only was the torture illegal and immoral, it was ineffective,' says Bening. 'It's a troubling story, but Daniel Jones and Dianne Feinstein were heroes.'

Liz Bonnin explores the devastating effect our love of meat is having on our planet

NEW ENVIRONMENT

Meat: A Threat to Our Planet?

Mon, BBC1 HD, 9pm (NI, 11.15pm)

Across the planet we now consume a staggering 65 billion animals a year. In the last 50 years, the global cattle population has increased by 400 million, the number of pigs has doubled and the number of chickens increased five-fold – all to keep up with our meat-eating demands. But what is the cost to our environment?

In a new documentary, wildlife biologist Liz Bonnin travels the world, from the rainforests of the Amazon to the intensive cattle farms in Texas, to investigate the devastating effect our meat consumption is having.

TV&Satellite Week met Bonnin, who presented the BBC's award-winning documentary Drowning in Plastic last year, to find out more…

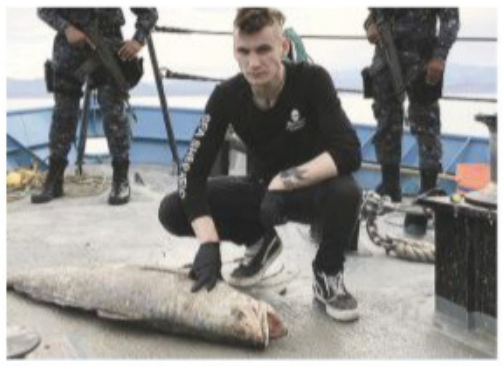
What shocked you most when making this documentary?

Seeing the destruction of the Amazon rainforest first-hand and fully realising just what a huge impact it is having. The rainforest is the lungs of our planet, a carbon store. It's invaluable and we're just trampling all over it because we want to eat a burger. That was by far the most difficult thing for me to film, and very upsetting.

Paul Goes to Hollywood

Thursday, Food Network HD, 9pm

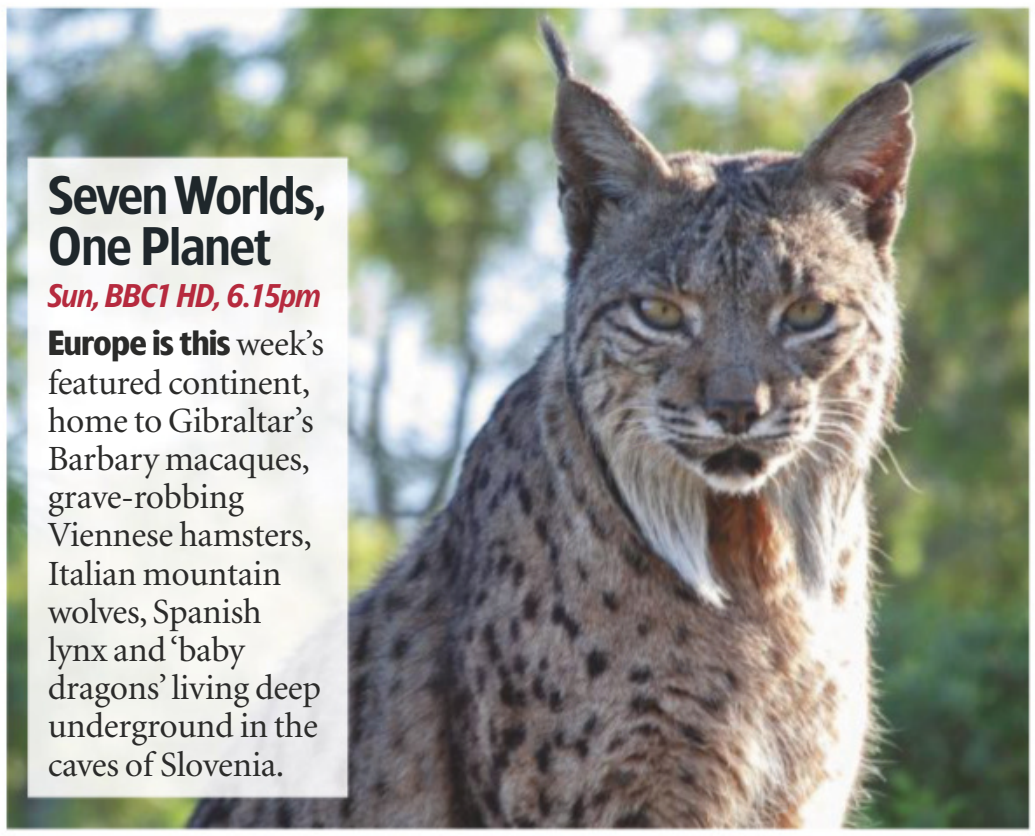
Paul Hollywood indulges his passions for cinema, motorbikes and cakes in this four-part series. The Bake Off judge will be reliving his favourite movie moments, meeting celebs – including Friends star Lisa Kudrow later in the run – and eating pastries on a road trip from New York to Los Angeles.



Sea of Shadows

Friday, National Geographic HD, 9pm

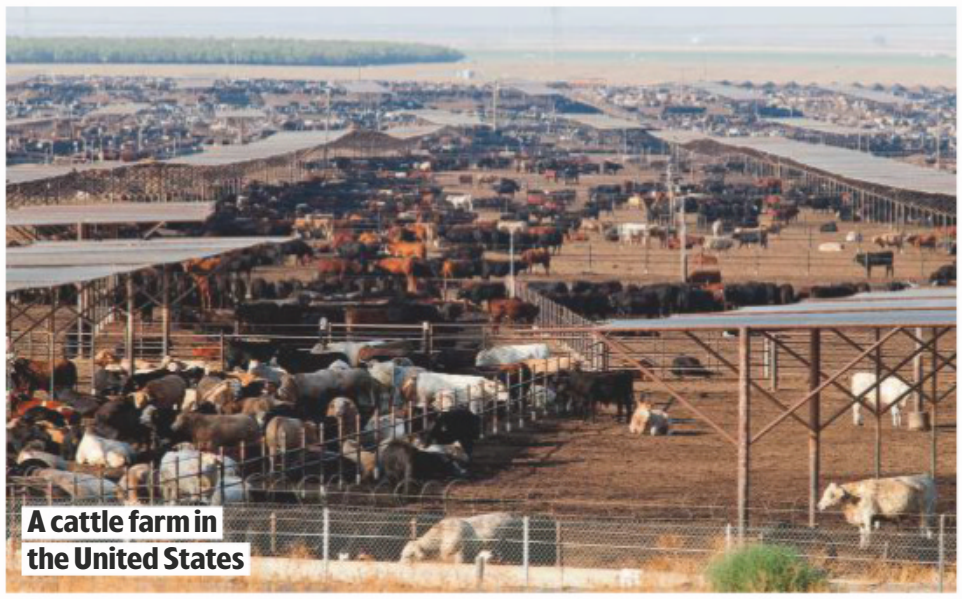
Hollywood star Leonardo DiCaprio has produced this one-off film about a team of scientists and undercover agents working to stop Mexican drug cartels and Chinese traffickers poaching the rare totoaba fish in the Sea of Cortez – a deadly activity that threatens the endangered vaquita porpoise.



Seven Worlds, One Planet

Sun, BBC1 HD, 6.15pm

Europe is this week's featured continent, home to Gibraltar's Barbary macaques, grave-robbing Viennese hamsters, Italian mountain wolves, Spanish lynx and 'baby dragons' living deep underground in the caves of Slovenia.



A cattle farm in the United States

You visit a factory farm in Texas where beef is mass-produced. What was that like? They're called 'feedyards' in the US. I met the boss of Wrangler, a company that owns 10 feedyards, each the size of 250 football pitches. Every six months, each yard takes in 50,000 cattle that are then slaughtered. This is what our demand for meat has created. What's staggering is the meat industry produces more greenhouse gas emissions that warm our planet than all our global transport put together. In the course of a year, the methane gas produced by a single cow heats the planet as much as burning around 600ltr petrol.

Did making this film change your own attitude to meat consumption? Yes, it did. I was already eating very little meat and was conscious of buying organic, grass-fed meat, but now I have stopped eating red meat altogether, and I can see myself getting into complete vegetarianism pretty soon. Going to an intensive pig farm and seeing all those pigs in the barn, that did it for me. I have just lost the taste for meat.

What do you hope viewers will take away from watching this programme? I want people to understand just how interconnected everything is, and the true impact meat production has on the planet. We see wrapped portions of meat for sale on a supermarket shelf and we don't really think about what it takes to put it there.

Destroyed rainforest

Does the current campaigning of the younger generation give you hope for the planet's future? I am wholeheartedly inspired by what they're doing. Greta Thunberg [the Swedish teenage environmental campaigner] is a hero of mine, but I don't think it should fall solely on our younger generation to be fighting for this cause. Eating less meat is something we can all do. If everyone reduced their meat intake to two portions a week, the benefit to the environment would be huge.

Sir Elton John opens up to Graham Norton about his turbulent life and career

I'm still standing!

NEW MUSIC

Elton John: Uncensored

Thursday, BBC1 HD, 9pm

Thanks to his big-screen biopic Rocketman, autobiography Me and a mammoth 300-date farewell world tour, Sir Elton John has been in the spotlight more than ever this year.

But when broadcaster Graham Norton meets the music legend at his house in the south of France for the star's only major interview of 2019, it's clear he still has plenty more to say about his 50-year career.

'I rarely look back, but with the book you have to go right back to the beginning, and it's been quite cathartic,' he tells Norton in BBC1's one-off special, Elton John: Uncensored.

FORWARD MOMENTUM

'I've suddenly realised I've led an amazing life,' he adds. 'Because I live my life at such a high speed, sometimes you just go from one thing to the next. But when I read the book in its entirety, I went, "God almighty!" I could have filled another 300 pages with stuff, but it's been gratifying to know, at 72, that I can do the book and film, and then move forward again.'

Born Reginald Dwight, the future pop superstar grew up in Pinner near London as a shy but precocious pianist, before changing his name to Elton Hercules John. As portrayed in the film and book, he experienced troubles with addiction and had a difficult relationship with his mum, Sheila, who died in 2017.

Openly gay since 1988, Elton entered into a civil partnership with and subsequently married his partner David Furnish, an event that made his relationship with his mother even more problematic.

'Towards the end of her life she got more difficult,' he reveals. 'She didn't approve of the civil partnership, she didn't approve of David. She didn't approve of anyone who was closer to me than she was.'

After 300 million album sales and countless accolades and awards, it's being a father to Zachary, eight, and Elijah, six, that has had the biggest effect on the star, and his boys are the reason he's finally decided to give up touring.

'I have a huge propensity for work,' he admits. 'Even when I was at my lowest, the thing that kept me alive was working. So I'll still be heavily involved in music. I just don't want to do the travelling anymore. I have two boys who need me, and David needs me too.'

Dumbo found himself getting in a bit of a flap

Disney's little elephant with the big ears gets a live-action makeover

PREMIERE OF THE WEEK

Dumbo

FAMILY ADVENTURE

Friday, Sky Premiere HD, 12.30pm & 8pm ★★★

Fired by Disney in the 1980s because his short film Frankenweenie was deemed 'too scary' for children, Tim Burton is now very much in the studio's good graces thanks to the success of his 2010 Alice in Wonderland.

Here he takes the helm of a live-action remake of Disney's beloved animated tale of the tiny circus elephant with more than jumbo-size ears.

The original 1941 movie ran for a brisk 64 minutes, but still managed to pack in plenty of pathos, humour and memorable tunes. Burton's version is almost twice the length – which means a slew of new human characters and a greatly expanded plot.

Colin Farrell stars as widowed father Holt Farrier, a one-armed World War One veteran and former trick rider, who is entrusted by Danny DeVito's big-top owner with the care of the misfit baby elephant.

When Dumbo's special talent comes to light, the fortunes of the struggling circus are turned around. But Michael Keaton's wily, unscrupulous impresario is determined to exploit the elephant's stardom at his giant new amusement park. Can Holt and his two plucky young children (Nicole Parker and Finely Hobbins) save their new friend with the aid of Eva Green's trapeze artist?

Disney's recent live-action makeovers of its animated classics have struggled to recapture the charm of the original films and Dumbo is no exception. The title character, created by means of animatronics and CGI, looks impressive and remains endearing, but the human characters are all too forgettable. The story still manages to tug the heartstrings – if Burton hadn't tamped down his signature weirdness it might have soared. 2019, PG, 111 MIN

Lez Bomb

Thursday, Sky Premiere HD, 11am & 10.15pm ★★

Closeted lesbian Lauren (Jenna Laurenzo, who also writes and directs) plans to come out to her family by bringing her girlfriend (Caitlin Mehner) home for Thanksgiving. But dropping the 'lez bomb' proves far harder than she hoped.

The movie is likeable and good-natured, and boasts a very game cast (including Steve Guttenberg, Bruce Dern and Cloris Leachman), but its farcical events are hopelessly contrived and the comedy is distinctly lacking in big laughs. 2018, 12, 90MIN

Saturday, Sky Premiere HD, 9.45am & 6.30pm ★★

Imagine the film Cars with boats and you'll get the idea of this anthropomorphic animated movie based on a Norwegian children's book and TV series about a plucky little rescue boat.

The storytelling isn't up to Pixar standards and some of the minor characters are actively annoying. But the animation punches above its budget and the film's adventure strand works fairly well. 2017, U, 73MIN

Metal Heart

Tuesday, Sky Premiere HD, 9.15am & 6.15pm ★★★

Full of sweetness, pep and heart, this Irish coming-of-age comedy about warring twin sisters in a Dublin suburb is an under-the-radar treat.

Leah McNamara's popular Chantal and Jordanne Jones's moody Emma couldn't be less identical. Chantal plans to turn her beauty blog into a career as an influencer, while College-bound Emma dreams of getting a gig with the band she has formed with best friend and fellow goth Gary (Seán Doyle).

Left alone when their parents decamp for the summer, they are soon at each other's throats. And things only get worse after an accident puts Chantal in a neck brace and Emma develops a crush on the cool-seeming older ex-rocker next door (Moe Dunford).

Director Hugh O'Conor and screenwriter Paul Murray don't spring too many surprises as the summer unfolds, but Jones and McNamara's winning performances have us rooting for the sisters to rediscover their bond. 2018, 15, 90MIN

Although Mike Myers became a force at the box office with the Austin Powers movies, this first spin-off from his Saturday Night Live sketch probably offers you more laughs for your money. The skimpy plot – a nasty TV executive (Rob Lowe) tries to take over Wayne's cable TV show – is really just an excuse to throw together a series of comedy sketches that range from the banal to the hilarious. Also on Friday. 1992, PG, 95MIN

Given this is the fourth instalment of the Resident Evil franchise, there is an inevitable sense of déjà-vu, but it all looks splendid and the action sequences are truly heart-pounding. Mickey Rourke's air of life-battered weariness is perfect for the role of a redemption-seeking, terminally ill ex-CIA assassin who befriends the jittery high-school kid next door (Nat Wolff) in this offbeat comedy drama. The narrative gets a bit slack in the middle, with too much time devoted to the efforts of Wolff's bookish teenager to make his mark on the football field, but there are enough quirky touches to keep us engaged. 2015, 15, 99MIN

Tom Cruise follows up his 2012 outing as author Lee Child's freelance righter of wrongs with another round of bruising vigilante action. And once again, despite lacking the physical presence that Child's larger-than-life hero has on the page, the star's confidence lets us go along with Reacher's far-fetched feats of derring-do. Here he tries to clear a military police officer (Cobie Smulders) of treason, his mission complicated by the appearance of a 15-year-old runaway (Danika Yarosh), who may or may not be his daughter. 2016, 12, 118MIN

Looking like a marshmallow and moving with a dainty waddle, lovable robot Baymax is the best thing about this family-friendly Disney animation based on a Marvel Comics series. Champions League

The knockout stage beckons for all four English clubs

THE MAIN EVENT

LIVE FOOTBALL

Tuesday & Wednesday, BT Sport 2 HD & BT Sport 3 HD

It's matchday five in the Champions League group stage, and all four of England's representatives have a chance of qualification to the knockout stage.

Here's what they need to do…

Tottenham Hotspur v Olympiacos

Tuesday, BT Sport 2 HD, kick-off 8pm

Spurs lie second in Group B, four points clear of Red Star Belgrade, having scored nine goals in back-to-back games against the Serbs, with Son Heung-min netting two in each match. Despite losing 7-2 at home to Bayern Munich, one victory from their final two games will ensure Spurs make the last 16.

DID YOU KNOW? Spurs have scored in each of their past 13 Champions League away games, and will set a new record for an English club if they score against Bayern next month.

GROUP B	P	GD	Pts
Bayern Munich	4	11	12
Tottenham Hotspur	4	4	7
Red Star Belgrade	4	-10	3
Olympiacos	4	-5	1

Olympiacos' Guilherme and Spurs' Lucas Moura in action

Chelsea's Willian

Manchester City v Shakhtar Donetsk

Tuesday, BT Sport 3 HD, kick-off 8pm

After Kyle Walker's turn in goal in the 1-1 draw with Atalanta, City are five points clear at the top of Group C after winning their first three matches. A draw on Tuesday against Shakhtar, who they defeated 3-0 in Ukraine in September, will be enough to earn them a place in the next round.

DID YOU KNOW? Raheem Sterling has scored five goals in this season's competition, two fewer than Red Bull Salzburg's teenage sensation Erling Braut Håland.

GROUP C	P	GD	Pts
Manchester City	4	9	10
Shakhtar Donetsk	4	-2	5
Dinamo Zagreb	4	2	5
Atalanta	4	-9	1

Valencia v Chelsea

Wed, BT Sport 3 HD, kick-off 5.55pm

Group H could hardly be tighter and Chelsea's fightback from 4-1 down to earn a crucial point against Ajax two weeks ago has thrown Frank Lampard's side a lifeline. The Blues travel to the Mestalla Stadium on Wednesday, knowing a victory by two or more goals would ensure their place in the next round.

DID YOU KNOW? Reece James (19 years, 332 days) became Chelsea's youngest goalscorer in Champions League history when he netted against Ajax at Stamford Bridge.

GROUP H	P	GD	Pts
Ajax	4	5	7
Chelsea	4	1	7
Valencia	4	1	7
Lille	4	-7	1

Liverpool v Napoli

Wednesday, BT Sport 2 HD, kick-off 8pm

The European champions lost to Napoli in their opening Group E game, but have since picked up three straight wins. Victory over Genk two weeks ago means the Reds are a point clear of Napoli and victory against the Italians at Anfield will secure their place in the next round as table toppers. If they lose, a draw to Salzburg in their final match will still be enough.

LIVE TENNIS

Davis Cup final

Saturday & Sunday, Eurosport 1 HD

The new-format tournament reaches a climax in Madrid with the semi-finals on Saturday (from 10am) and the final on Sunday (3pm). Each tie features two singles matches and one doubles over the best of three sets. Rafael Nadal will be hoping to lead hosts Spain to victory, while other top players aiming to make the last four include Serbia's Novak Djokovic, Great Britain's Andy Murray and Marin Cilic of defending champions Croatia.

New Zealand v England: Second Test

From Thursday, Sky Sports Cricket HD & Sky Sports Main Event HD

England conclude their tour of New Zealand with the second Test in Hamilton where captain Joe Root hit a century on his last appearance at the Seddon Park ground in 2018. England will next travel to South Africa for four Tests and six limited-overs matches, from December to February.

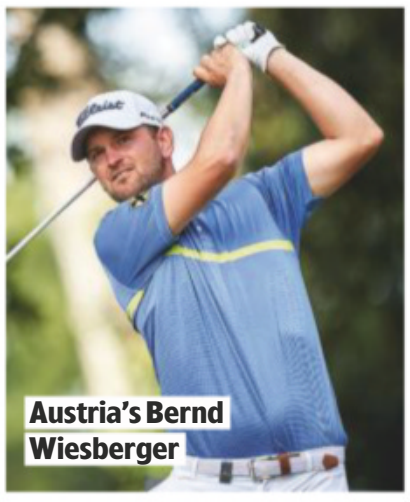
Deontay Wilder and Luis Ortiz

LIVE BOXING

Deontay Wilder v Luis Ortiz

Saturday, Sky Sports Action HD, 2am

The MGM Grand Garden Arena in Las Vegas is the venue for this hotly anticipated rematch between the WBC heavyweight champion and his Cuban opponent. The bout follows Wilder's 10th-round knockout win over Ortiz in New York in 2018. The 34-year-old American, who has held the WBC title since 2015, currently boasts a career record of 41 wins and one draw, against Tyson Fury last December.



Austria's Bernd Wiesberger

LIVE GOLF

World Tour Championship

Sat & Sun, Sky Sports Golf HD & Sky Sports Main Event HD

Golf's biggest first prize will be awarded at the European Tour's season-ending event in Dubai over the weekend. The final two rounds will also decide the European Tour's overall No.1 player, with Scottish Open winner Bernd Wiesberger of Austria, Spain's Jon Rahm and Open champion Shane Lowry among those in pursuit of the Race to Dubai title.

FIRST LOOK

The Stranger

Richard Armitage heads the cast of Harlan Coben's thriller

Siobhan Finneran and Kadiff Kirwan star alongside Armitage

Here's a tantalising early look at Harlan Coben's The Stranger, airing on Netflix next year.

The tense eight-part drama, filmed in and around Manchester, has been executive produced by the author and is based on his best-selling 2015 book. It sees Richard Armitage play family man Adam Price, whose seemingly happy life with his teacher wife Corinne (Dervla Kirwan) and their two sons is blown apart when a mysterious stranger (Hannah John-Kamen) tells Adam a devastating secret about Corinne, who promptly disappears, unleashing a chain of events that leads Adam into a chilling conspiracy...

Meanwhile, Siobhan Finneran plays DS Johanna Griffin, whose investigation with DC Wesley Ross (Kadiff Kirwan) suddenly takes a deeply personal turn. Jennifer Saunders plays Johanna's friend Heidi and Stephen Rea is retired cop Martin Rinksy, to whom Adam turns for help. Anthony Head, Shaun Dooley and Paul Kaye co-star in the dark drama, which has been adapted by Danny Brocklehurst.

'I could barely contain my excitement reading Harlan Coben's The Stranger, a nail-biting thriller with a huge beating heart and a dash of social commentary for extra bite,' says Armitage.

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Tom Burke

The Strike star will appear in BBC2's factual drama Responsible Child, which centres on Ray (Billy Barratt), a 12-year-old boy on trial for murder. Michelle Fairley and Stephen Campbell Moore co-star.

Melissa George

Apple TV+ drama Mosquito Coast, based on Paul Theroux's novel, sees the actress play Margot, the wife of Allie (Justin Theroux), who has taken his family to Latin America to start a new life together.

David Walliams

In C4's Chitty Flies Again, airing this Christmas, the comedian, author and BGT judge will mark the 50th anniversary of the film Chitty Chitty Bang Bang by attempting to build a car that can fly.

Coming Back

A second run of Sky One's darkly comic thriller Temple will see Mark Strong reprise his role as surgeon Daniel Milton, who runs an illegal clinic beneath the London underground.

IN PRODUCTION...

Two Weeks to Live

Filming is under way in Kent and London on Maisie Williams' new Sky One comedy Two Weeks to Live. In the six-part series, the actress plays Kim, a gung-ho survivalist who heads off on a mission to honour her late father. But a twist of fate finds her on the run from gangsters and the police.

'I think it has great potential and I want to make something incredible,' says Game of Thrones star Williams.

Next week On sale Tuesday 26 November

V Wars

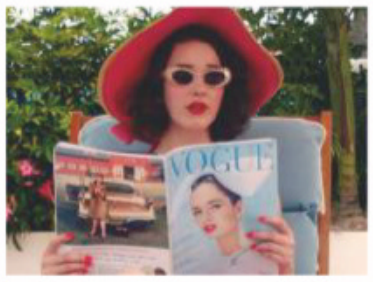
Ian Somerhalder stars in Netflix's horror about a disease that turns people into vampires.

The Grinch

Benedict Cumberbatch voices the Christmas curmudgeon in this animation on Sky Premiere.

Truth Be Told

Apple TV+'s thriller asks if a man in jail for murder (Aaron Paul) may have been wrongly convicted.



The Marvelous Mrs Maisel

The third run of Amazon Prime Video's period comedy drama.

'YOU'LL NEVER WALK ALONE...'

This motto of Liverpool FC is an expression of unwavering support through good times and bad. In 1999, the iconic Liverpool FC Club crest as we know it was established, and today symbolises the Club's history, loyalty and strength.

As we approach the 20th anniversary of the design of the Liverpool FC crest, The Bradford Exchange presents the designer-style Liverpool FC Men's Leather Wallet – an officially licensed bi-fold edition.

A unique design with genuine leather and embossed Liver Bird detailing

Custom-designed, this handcrafted leather edition is as functional as it is fashionable. The front showcases an expertly embossed Liverpool FC Crest, and opens to reveal 2 large compartments for notes, 5 credit card slots and an ID photo window – perfect for a memento of your family or the Liver Bird keepsake included! That's not all though – the wallet depicts the Liver Bird Crest on the interior corner. For the perfect finish, the edition features RFID Blocking Technology, preventing electronic theft.

Don't miss out – order this officially licensed Liverpool FC men's wallet today!

An officially licensed edition and a perfect gift for a Liverpool FC fan, this unique edition is accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity and our 120-day money-back guarantee. It is available for just 2 interest-free instalments of £29.99 – that's only £59.98 (plus £6.99 S&S)*. Pay nothing now – simply complete and return your Reservation Application today!
